Objectives

This survey was designed to assist the World Bank Group (WBG) in gaining a better understanding of how stakeholders in El Salvador perceive the WBG. The survey explored the following questions:

- 1. Overall Context: How familiar are stakeholders with the WBG? How much do they trust the WBG?
- 2. Key Indicators: What opinion do key stakeholders have of the WBG regarding its effectiveness, relevance, alignment with El Salvador's development priorities, and other key indicators? Are opinions improving or declining?
- 3. Development Priorities: What areas of development are perceived to be the most important? Have the priorities changed over the past three years? How effective is the WBG perceived to be in these areas?
- 4. Engagement on the Ground: How is the WBG perceived as a development partner in El Salvador? Are opinions improving or declining?
- 5. Financial Instruments and Knowledge Work: What do key stakeholders value the most regarding the WBG's work in El Salvador? What opinion do key stakeholders have of WBG financial instruments and knowledge products? Are opinions improving or declining? What are stakeholders' suggestions for improving WBG's effectiveness?
- 6. Communication and Outreach: What are the preferred communication channels? Are there differences among stakeholder groups in terms of preferred channels?
- 7. Message Recall: What key topics that the WBG communicates do stakeholders recall? Is there a relationship between message recall and views of the WBG's work?

Overall Context

“To make its intervention in El Salvador more effective, the World Bank could design financing strategies that recognize and address the country's high debt burden. This could include implementing specific programs aimed at efficient debt management, restructuring liabilities with more favorable conditions, and promoting economic reforms that foster sustainable growth. In addition, the World Bank could work with other partners and not just public institutions to have more control over the use of resources.”

(Bilateral/Multilateral Agency Respondent)

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?(N=148)

Familiarity with the World Bank

Mean familiarity: FY24 = 6.9
 FY21 = 6.9

- Collaboration with the WBG: Respondents who indicated that they collaborate with the WBG reported significantly higher levels of familiarity with the institution’s work:

Mean familiarity: Collaborate with WBG = 8.2
 Do not collaborate = 6.4

- Stakeholders: Respondents from government institutions indicated the highest levels of familiarity with the WBG, followed by respondents from local government, whereas respondents from the private sector and academia reported lower familiarity with the WBG’s work.

Stakeholders Most Familiar with the UN and IDB

- Respondents in this year's Country Survey were asked to indicate their familiarity with the work of several international organizations and the World Bank Group. Of these organizations, respondents in El Salvador indicated the highest levels of familiarity with the work of the United Nations (UN), followed by the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB/BID). Respondents were least familiar with the Latin American Development Bank (CAF) work.

The WBG is the Most Trusted Institution

Respondents in El Salvador rated the World Bank Group, United Nations, academia, and civil society as the most trustworthy institutions.

Despite significantly improved ratings compared to the FY21 survey, the Legislative Assembly, El Salvador's Central Bank, the media, and the national government were among the least trusted institutions studied.

- Regarding trust in the WBG, respondents from government institutions had the highest ratings of trust in the WBG (mean = 9.0). In contrast, respondents from academia, media, and civil society had significantly lower trust ratings (means = 7.0, 7.5, and 7.5, respectively).

Overall Attitudes toward the World Bank Group

“I believe that given the national context, the WBG can have a greater influence in promoting public policies for human development, key issues for social and economic development, and transparency in the use of funds.

[The WBG] should promote more knowledge management and the training of new officials. This is something that the WBG does well, but lately they have not been doing it systematically in the country, as well as sharing successful experiences from countries similar to El Salvador, as well as considering projects that favor regional integration.”

(Government Institution Respondent)

Comparisons of ratings for key performance indicators between stakeholder groups show that respondents from government institutions and local government have the highest ratings for the WBG work across all KPIs. In contrast, respondents from academia, the private sector, and the media had significantly lower ratings.

Familiarity Leads to More Positive Perceptions

Comparing ratings of key performance indicators among respondents highly familiar with the WBG (ratings of 8-10 on a 10-point scale) and those with little familiarity with the WBG (ratings of 1-4 on a 10-point scale), one can see that the more familiar stakeholders are with the WBG, the more positive perceptions they have of the WBG and its work.

World Bank Group's Support for Development Areas

Job creation is required for families in rural areas and sustainable food systems that preserve the environment.”

(Civil Society Respondent)

WORLD BANK GROUP

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador? (N=148)

Development Areas for WBG Focus

In FY24, stakeholders wanted the WBG to focus its resources on education, jobs, agriculture/food security, and water/sanitation.

Jobs, agriculture/food security, water/sanitation, and climate change have elevated notably since FY21. Specifically, the water sector grew as a priority, with 3.7% of respondents in FY21 and 31% of respondents recognizing its importance in FY24.

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to help increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?

“Improve transparency in government management and ensure effective accountability. Create an enabling environment for investment, as well as promote policies that foster sustainable economic development. Develop policies that address food insecurity.”
(Government Institution Respondent)

“Understanding and aligning with the priorities of the country's public agenda, having a technical and political agenda that is truly based on the will of the country. In education, too, not only focusing on quality, but on equity and inclusion. The recovery of learning is not everything, its strengthening is an even greater need today because when it is strengthened, student performance is accelerated. Likewise, having a systemic vision. Early childhood is a priority, but investment must also be made in education for young people and adults, without this, cycles of inequality, inequity and poverty are reproduced.”

(Bilateral/Multilateral Agency Respondent)

Which areas should the WBG prioritize to have the most impact on development results in El Salvador? (Select up to 5) (Percentage of Respondents, N=199)

Effectiveness of WBG's Support in Sectoral Areas

The WBG's work in public service infrastructure, transport, health, and education received the highest effectiveness ratings. Of note, most of the indicators studied in both years have declined notably since FY21, especially for energy/extractives and social inclusion.

World Bank Group's Engagement on the Ground in El Salvador

“The WBG could generate projects that force intersectoral articulation and have comprehensive approaches to the country's social and economic problems. Generate spaces where academia, civil society, and the private sector contribute to the development of effective public policies and also promote spaces for the evaluation of public policies, where effectiveness and efficiency can be measured.”

(Government Institution Respondent)

WORLD BANK GROUP

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador? (N=148)

The WBG Seen as a Long-Term Partner

In FY24, respondents perceived the WBG as a long-term partner with accessible staff and responsive to needs in El Salvador. Notably fewer respondents agree that WBG is open to sharing data and other information compared to the FY21.

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?

“Work with more local actors and civil society. There is a lot of information that is disguised by state institutions. Also, better supervise the projects that are being executed with bank funds. Some of them have been delayed or are used for things they were not intended for, but the claim is not made public to the government..” (Media Respondent)

“The majority of the Salvadoran population lacks information about the intervention of financial institutions in the country [...]There is no information on the existence of environmental, gender, disability, and other safeguards, and if they exist, we do not know how to access them to question or denounce projects that in our opinion could be harmful to life. They should be made known to exercise social control and have space to demand compliance with them. It is also to be expected that the benefits reach the low-income population. This is not happening, especially if we address the issue of women's access to basic services, land, housing, health, education, among others.” (Civil Society Respondent)

The WBG Collaborates Effectively with National Government and Development Partners

In FY24, respondents believed that WBG effectively collaborates with the national government and other development partners. Respondents believe WBG collaborates less effectively with faith-based institutions, the Legislative Assembly, and civil society.

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?

"[The WBG] should involve civil society more and better in the design, implementation, and evaluation of projects. [The WBG] should improve the presentation of the information it publishes regarding the implementation of projects because they are not usually user-friendly documents. [The WBG] should facilitate more spaces for dialogue between interested parties and public institutions implementing projects. ." (Civil Society Respondent)

"Working in a coordinated manner with local governments. Integrating more sectors, such as private companies and NGOs. Betting on support for urgent needs in El Salvador, unemployment, access to education and support for agriculture and food security". (Office of Parliamentarian Respondent)

To what extent is the WBG an effective development partner in El Salvador, in terms of collaborating with the following groups? Scale: 1 To no degree at all – 10 To a very significant degree

Stakeholders Want the Bank to Collaborate More with Civil Society, Academia, and Private Sector

Respondents in this year's survey indicated that, besides its partnership with the National government, the WBG should collaborate more with civil society, academia, and the private sector.

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?

“Although the Bank already has a mechanism to monitor the results and execution of disbursements in the country, it may be necessary to involve other actors in this process to better legitimize the Bank’s actions in the country. Also, in the elaboration of the country strategy, consultation depends largely on the actors who are largely in tune with the development vision of the government and the bank, but to the extent possible, it would also be convenient to establish communication channels that provide alternative development paths.”
(Civil Society Respondent)

“Greater coordination with civil society organizations at the local level and contributing to the demand for accountability, transparency and the participation of diverse civil society in financing the central government, to ensure that resources are used in those public spending priorities that are required for inclusive, democratic and sustainable development.”
(Civil Society Respondent)

In addition to its partnership with the national government, which of the following should the WBG collaborate with more to have greater impact in El Salvador? (Select up to 2) (Percentage of Respondents, N=186)

World Bank Group's Financial Instruments and Knowledge Work

“In terms of knowledge, speed up publications to have more recent data that can be more useful. In terms of projects and financing, share progress or increase accountability to ensure that funds are well invested.”

(Civil Society Respondent)

“Focus part of the resources on training and capacity building in government institutions at a technical level. In addition, increase the support of resources for the productive sector of the country both at the level of the financial system and private sectors.”

(Government Institution Respondent)

Financial Resources Considered the Bank's Greatest Value

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?

“Ensure that funding and technical support is provided directly to organizations working in the communities that need help the most and not through the government. Put more controls on the use of the money they lend and demand accountability for the funds.”

(Media Respondent)

*“1. Strengthen the technical staff in institutions where the World Bank has any of its various financial products.
2. Offer attractive financial solutions in the areas where the country has prioritized its needs.”*

(Government Institution Respondent)

“Continue to contextualize its interventions, providing timely technical assistance and sharing resources from the global knowledge management they carry out.”

(Civil Society Respondent)

WBG Seen as Insisting on Accountability, with Reasonable ESF Requirements, and with its Financing Conditions Competitive to Market

Regarding the WBG’s financial instruments, respondents agreed that the WBG insists on accountability through its lending, that the WBG’s Environmental and Social Framework requirements are reasonable, and that financing conditions are competitive to markets.

- Of note, academia and private sector respondents gave the lowest overall ratings across these indicators (overall means = 6.5 and 7.1, respectively).

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?

“Accountability, monitoring of programs and projects. Support NGOs that invest directly in education and research. Promote transparency in government and local governments.”

Of note, fewer respondents agreed that they know how to find the WBG's knowledge work, with respondents from civil society and academia showing the lowest levels of awareness.

In your opinion, what is the most important thing the WBG could do to help increase its effectiveness in El Salvador?

"... I think it would be important to hold workshops for journalists in order to cover the work of the World Bank to the new generations. And also, to have closer communication."
(Media Respondent)

"Increase the communication of all its work through conventional and digital media. Make known more about the work carried out in the country and the alliances with the different actors in the country. Greater presence and image in relevant events, whether its own or by invitation."
(Bilateral/Multilateral Respondent)

To what extent do you agree with the following statements? Scale: 1 Strongly disagree – 10 Strongly agree
 How significant a contribution do you believe the WBG's knowledge work makes to development results in El Salvador?

The Future Role of the World Bank Group in El Salvador

“Submit to the public opinion the results of the projects financed with Bank funds, especially if it is debt acquired by the Salvadoran State. In addition, establish more rigorous requirements for the execution of public investment projects.”

(Office of Parliamentarian Respondent)

“Better control and audit of the funds being disbursed to El Salvador. Publish these reports periodically or disclose where they can be accessed, make known your work plan, whether annual, five-year, as the case may be. Work with more organizations and not just with the central government. In short, make the information more accessible to citizens.”

How can the Bank increase its effectiveness? Open-Ended Responses

Engage with more non-government stakeholders, build capacity, and better align with El Salvador's needs, context, and capacity.

Focus Area

"1. Promote accountability and transparency in the use of public funds 2. Promote the organization of public finances based on social development objectives and the reduction of inequalities."
(Civil Society Respondent)

"Focus on reducing the digital divide by working directly with educational institutions and private foundations. -Focus on increasing educational coverage. -Focus on providing the government with technical assistance to find permanent and sustainable solutions to the public transportation problem."
(Private Sector Respondent)

"I consider that currently, due to the changes in the municipal composition, it is important to collaborate with the municipalities to improve financial and service management."
(Local Government Respondent)

Knowledge

"The WB could articulate the MAP with the United Nations Development Framework to coordinate development efforts in the country. Specifically, the WB could leverage the knowledge and territorial presence of some of the UN agencies, which would serve to objectively and with a focus on protection, including the most vulnerable populations in the country. The lack of external financing for a broad social policy generates the need to better coordinate humanitarian aid with development efforts."
(Bilateral/Multilateral Respondent)

"Strengthen the capacities and knowledge of civil society organizations on issues of sustainability, environmental care, search for social investment and good practices applicable to the Salvadoran context."
(Civil Society Respondent)

Engagement

"More relations with civil society and think tanks on strategic and country issues. For example, some consultation mechanism, like the CONSOC that the IDB had. This would allow the programs to be evaluated from a bottom-up perspective. At the moment, loans and projects are perceived from a vertical perspective, from top to bottom, which would allow a systemic approach. This means that opportunities are lost for innovation that can come from below, especially in social issues, such as education and health."
(Civil Society Respondent)

"Coordination with the United Nations and all the programmatic areas that are developed within each organization. I understand the prioritization, but in health issues there are several agencies, funds and programs that contribute, such as PAHO, UNICEF, UNFPA, and sometimes only one of these is considered. It would be more robust to have the experience and work of all of them."
(Bilateral/Multilateral Respondent)

Results

"Greater coordination with civil society organizations at the local level and contributing to the demand for accountability, transparency and the participation of diverse civil society in financing the central government, to ensure that resources are used in those public spending priorities that are required for inclusive, democratic and sustainable development."
(Civil Society Respondent)

"Channeling funds to local governments or project executing agencies to achieve greater impact. Improving accountability in the country, demanding greater transparency and use of public resources."

Operation Effectiveness

"Know more and better the reality of the country in terms of education, to be more flexible in the way of conceiving the requirements and terms of the loans, in addition to hiring local, non-foreign consultants. Require the holders to faithfully comply and commit to the execution of funds."

(Office of the President, Minister Respondent)

*"*Streamline the processes in the negotiation and disbursement of loans. *Streamline the purchasing and bidding processes, for the proper execution of loans. *Improve the validation and approval processes of products. *Expand the eligibility of the use of the bank's funds for the needs and priorities of the institution. *Optimize the use of the Bank's online systems for the approval of processes. Avoid high turnover of project managers and timely notification of changes."

(Government Institution Respondent)

"WBG might consider trying innovative approaches to trigger El Salvador's enabling environment for prosperity. For example, robust, systemic and all hands-hearts-minds interventions, even in limited locations for proof of concept, as a pilot to scale. As important as it may be to address internal stakeholders and dynamics, outsiders are key to breaking away from the country's stagnation (organizing the diaspora, setting up special investment zones based on next level product space, promote Central America infrastructure as a development system)."

(Academia Respondent)

Results

"Greater coordination with civil society organizations at the local level and contributing to the demand for accountability, transparency and the participation of diverse civil society in financing the central government, to ensure that resources are used in those public spending priorities that are required for inclusive, democratic and sustainable development."

“Approaching the private sector in the region to explore the possibility of forming alliances to develop projects that benefit underserved populations in areas affected by private sector investments. More strategic communications work, so that different stakeholders are aware of the work of the WBG, more visibility, specific communications actions with different audiences.”

Detailed Methodology

From January to April 2024, a total of 384 stakeholders in El Salvador were invited to provide their opinions on the WBG’s work by participating in a Country Opinion Survey (COS). A list of potential participants was compiled by the WBG country team and the fielding agency. Participants were drawn from the Offices of the President, Prime Minister, Minister, and Parliament, government institutions, local governments, bilateral or multilateral agencies, the private sector, civil society, academia, and the media.

Of these stakeholders, 201 participated in the survey (52% response rate). Respondents completed the questionnaire via an online platform.

This year’s survey results were compared to the FY21 Survey, which had a response rate of 68% (N=165).

Comparing responses across Country Surveys reflects changes in attitudes over time, but also changes in respondent samples, changes in methodology, and changes to the survey instrument itself. To reduce the influence of the latter factor, only those questions with similar response scales/options were analyzed. This year’s survey saw a much better distribution of respondents across stakeholder groups with greater outreach to and/or response from local governments and academia but a decrease from government institutions. These differences in stakeholder composition between the two years should be considered when interpreting the results of the past-year comparison analyses.

Key statistically significant findings (tested at the research standard of $p < .05$) are noted throughout the report.

Breakdowns for individual questions by stakeholder group can be found in the “El Salvador COS FY24 Appendices with data breakdowns.xlsx” file published in the WBG Microdata Library, along with the survey microdata and this report.
